An Appeal for Flowers.

To The Citizen:
Most of the readers of THE CITIZEN are aware that there exists among the great charities of our neighboring city of New York, one known as the "New York Fruit and Flower Mission," located at No. 239 Fourth Avenue.

For eight or ten years past the teachers and pupils connected with the Public Schools of this town have taken a hearty interest in this work, and while the schools have been in session there has been no lack of flowers, as the pupils have brought their contributions regularly every week from May till October.

Now that the schools are closed, and the pupils are scattered, we find it difficult to obtain a sufficient supply of blossoms to fill even one basket twice every week.

This fact leads us to appeal to the friends of the poor and sick in tenement houses and hospitals through the columns of our paper.

This beautiful charity is carried on with but a trifling expense. The ladies, who work at the Mission Rooms every week are only too happy to give their time, then, too, the various Express Companies lend their aid by carrying the baskets and boxes twice every week without charge.

Surely those of us who are so favored as to have homes in the country, should esteem it a rare privilege to assist our city friends in this noble work for if they can not get help from their country neighbors they cannot carry on the work of distribution which is their part.

All kinds of flowers are acceptable, but especially those having a sweet smell. Many thousand bouquets are distributed every summer among the inmates of the large hospitals, the sick and poor in tenement houses, through the instrumentality of city missionaries, hospital nurses, and Bible readers.

One of the ladies connected with this Mission made it her business during one summer to carry a basket of flowers and visit one of the most wretched districts of New York City; she sought out the sick poor especially, but if possible would give to all at least one spray of flowers.

Crowds of wretched women and children would surround her every time she went, and it was really pitiful to hear them beg for "just one flower."

One poor creature said, with tears in her eyes, "Why, I never had a bouquet in all my life before."

Not only flowers are in great demand, but all kinds of fruits are particularly desired.

Many of us have berries of various kinds in our gardens. Can we not spare a few to send these poor creatures who scarcely ever taste such luxuries?

Sometimes our pupils bring to their teachers little boxes filled with cherries, currants, strawberries or other small fruit, neatly tied up and ready for distribution. How much pleasure is given by such little things. Jellies too are called for most earnestly and are very valuable.

A nurse in one of the Children's Hospitals said that it was such a help to her to have a spoonful of jelly to give to the little sick patients after having administered their medicines; it seemed to act like magic upon each little sufferer.

Scores of similar cases might be spoken of, but we think these mentioned will suffice.

Any person who is willing to send contributions in the way of flowers (either cultivated or wild), fruit, or jellies, will kindly leave them at the house of Mrs. H. F. Pele, on Park Avenue.

As the expression calls only on every Monday and Thursday morning, it is necessary to have all articles sent in on the previous afternoon or evening.

Ride to Little Falls.

Many symphonies are written in a minor key. Strains of ecstasy and tones of sadness are alike trying to the sensitive ear. The mind loves the winding paths where nerves are forgotten, and the spirit bathes in the sweet consciousness of rest. And so when you ask how they enjoyed themselves, the party which on last Saturday left the world of cares behind to find the world of enjoyment beside the falling waters of the Passaic, and beneath the sylvan shade of the Grove House at Caldwell, in careless phrase they answer: "Oh, we're all right." In spite of heat and dust, and occasional petty fright, the spirits of some were high, the spirits of others were low, and some just had no spirits at all.

Over the hills they rode, catching glimpses of green fields, and far away cities, and brilliant little patches of sunshine such as no artist's brush can paint, through the Notch rode the twenty-five; rocks to the right of them, a railway to the left, and before them the glorious plain, with its rural beauty, with the river whose torrent dashes over the rocks, rushing along to drive the mills of Paterson and Passaic, and quench the thirst of the thousands in the cities beyond.

And there on the rocks lingered the twenty-five with their baskets and sharp appetites, surrounded by the fringe of humanity, whose eager eyes questioned the generosity of the newcomers, and whose waistcoats ere long covered many of their dainties. Happy the man who invented picnics; and happier he who with undiminished ardor can enjoy them! The ride, the lunch, the walks, the rocks, which are slippery, and the water, which is very wet, the songs, the music, the dance, and the play of wit, humor, and sarcasm, who shall picture them? Only the moon looked peacefully down as they drove along the shady road, and they wondered who would forget the church bell in the morning. Friend, wouldst thou enjoy the passing hour? Ask not of time and times, divide not life into cares and troubles, put away cheerful countenance, and go to Caldwell, or walk perchance by the boiling waters of the Passaic, and learn patience, good humor, and jolly good fellowship.

The American House.

To The Citizen:

"But one thing thou lackest" might in all appropriateness be written as a closing sentence of the article in a recent issue of THE CITIZEN, above which appeared the same heading as that which precedes this communication. Admitting as true all the statements contained in the description of the American House, by K. C., there is yet one thing that must be accomplished before this hotel can be a first-class place. Your present contributor is not a total abstinence man, but he is a law and order lover; one who desires for Bloomfield a hotel that will afford suitable accommodation for people of refinement. A circumstance occurred the last Fourth that proves that the American House has not, in all cases, proved equal to demand.

Upon the day mentioned a gentleman, with his wife and grown daughter, came from New York to Bloomfield to call upon a member of one of the most influential families of Bloomfield. Arriving in town about noon, the party began search for a place to dine at, previous to making their call. The so-called hotels, on Glenwood Avenue, presented themselves; they were per force not patronized. The American House, with the attractive outward surroundings, promised better things. The party passed over Broad Street to the "Ladies' Entrance." The nearer approach to the building betrayed the noise of the bar. They walked up the west side of the Park and halted hesitatingly before the Park House. "A private boarding house," they argued, "will not wish to accommodate transients." Retracing their steps they returned to New York without having seen their friend.

Two queries arise because of this circumstance. First: Why did they not go to their friends for dinner? Second: Has Bloomfield the ideal hotel that a town should possess, having the position that is held by Bloomfield?

To the first query a reply is ready. The party in question were acquainted with but one member of the family that they sought. Strangers as they were, they were unwilling to appear unannounced, just at meal time, upon a holiday, when family gatherings are in order. The second query: Let every honorably-minded citizen think on these things, and some person offer a remedy.

A RESIDENT OF BLOOMFIELD.

Rev. E. C. Hancock, pastor of a Methodist church at Burlington, announced in a sermon recently that he would not marry a woman to any man whom he knew to be intemperate.

A GRAND TIME FOR EVERYBODY!

ON SATURDAY, JULY 25, we shall hold our

THIRD ANNUAL ICE CREAM JUBILEE.

As the impossible for every one to purchase the ice cream, we propose to give to those who buy through the week commencing July 22nd a ticket which will pass them to the jubilee on Saturday. Every effort will be made to make this one of the most pleasant features ever offered to a general public.

Remember, all you have to buy is one half-pound of Timonone pound of coffee, and besides the cream and sugar, you retain your regular ticket which will pass them to the jubilee free. As there will undoubtedly be a great rush we would advise those who can do so to come on the afternoon, especially the children. The jubilee will be open at 2:30 P. M. sharp. Come and have a delicious time. We have recently made the quantity of our ice cream so large that the jubilee will be a most successful one. This was really an oversight on our part, but we are now making up for it by giving to every person in the city a well-earned ticket, so that our 250,000 lbs. of ice cream will be sold in the city for the jubilee. As our business has grown so rapidly, we are now making up for it by giving to every person in the city a well-earned ticket, so that our 250,000 lbs. of ice cream will be sold in the city for the jubilee.

Elgin Creamery, Genuine:

Only 22c. Per Pound.

We call notice that some of the more reputable dealers are trying to deceive the public with their cheap brown-paper signs, containing words to the effect that they have for sale a marvelous quality of the BEST ELGIN CREAMERY. We do not doubt, we would the Elgin Creamery business of Newark, and the Butter sold by the above referred parties would be the best, but a very poor apology for the delicious Elgin. We mention this matter in all honesty and candor, and invite a strict inspection in order that our words may be verified.

Don't forget, July 25, the third annual jubilee at the stores of

Too Many Parasols.

We are bound to indicate our tremendously large stock of sun umbrellas and parasols, and to state that the great amount of business we have done during the past two weeks is far in excess of anything that ever been achieved by any house in the country. To further reduce our stock of these most valuable articles we shall make

Our entire stock of parasols in lots on extra counter room for this occasion. Such a grand opportunity to parasols never before offered, and should not be neglected, as our prices are one-half actual value. When you purchase or make any assertions but what can be relied upon as stated in our advertisements, while a customer stores will readily verify the preceding statements.

SPECIAL PARASOL SALE BEGINS MONDAY A. M., June 29.
As these are closing prices we cannot guarantee our stock to last, but those calling early are sure to have the choice to select from.

We shall give to all purchases this week an elegant design in the way of a Fan which for beauty of finish and design has never before been offered. The design represents a sea view with a child surrounded by lot flowers, in the foreground having her photograph taken. This no doubt will be appreciated.
In New Jersey we are the recognized and firmly established headquarters for genuine and valuable everything we sell, and our prices which are open to public inspection and comparison through our advertisement will be found to be below anything that has ever been quoted on similar goods.
